

Schools
History Project

New Teachers' Conference 2022

supported by...

supported by...

Schools History Project New Teachers' Conference

Supported by OCR and Hodder Education

Online, 29th January £40

Are you a Early Career Teacher, a trainee teacher or just looking to improve your practice with high-quality, great value, subject-specific CPD?

Come to the Schools History Project's second New Teachers' Conference online on 29th January.

So far, we are able to confirm workshops from:

- Ian Dawson on teaching chronology,
- Rachel Foster on helping your pupils access historical scholarship,
- Mike Hill on world-building and pupil's knowledge of historical contexts,
- Rich Kerridge on principles for supporting pupils with SEND in the history classroom,
- Josh Preye Garry on how to start thinking about curriculum planning,

As well as:

- Teni Oladehin on making your classroom a welcoming and inclusive place for all,
- A round-table discussion featuring teachers at different stages of their careers, discussing the challenges faced by new teachers and how they overcame them,
- 'Introducing...' videos from groups and organisations that can help you improve your teaching,
- And more to soon be confirmed.

Tickets will be £40 and are available from the Leeds Trinity University Store here.

Supported by Hodder Education

SHP's Publishing Partner, Hodder Education, will be offering exclusive discounts for attendees at the SHP New Teachers' Conference.

- 25% off all books
- 10% off downloadable CPD Resource Packs

Hodder Education is the No.1 History publisher for secondary schools and a trusted provider of teacher CPD and student revision events. View their full range of resources here.

